

Body Imaging

Assistant, Associate or Full Professor

The Department of Radiology (<http://radiology.ucsd.edu>) at the University of California, San Diego is committed to academic excellence within the faculty, staff, and student body. We are currently seeking full-time faculty to join the Body Imaging Division.

UC San Diego School of Medicine is consistently ranked among the top research-intensive medical schools in the nation by U.S. News & World Report. UC San Diego Health is the only academic health system serving the San Diego region, with major campuses in Hillcrest and La Jolla. The health system includes two Joint Commission-certified Comprehensive Stroke Centers, an NCI-designated Moores Comprehensive Cancer Center, a Level 1 Trauma and Burn Center, a Level 4 Epilepsy Center, a Level 3 Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU), and a Center of Excellence for Parkinson's Disease.

The UC San Diego Department of Radiology is one of the most innovative and productive academic departments in the country, offering state-of-the-art imaging services that support outstanding clinical care and forward-thinking research. The Body Imaging Division plays a central role in diagnosing and managing a wide range of conditions using advanced cross-sectional imaging, including CT, MRI, ultrasound, and fluoroscopy. Our radiologists work in close collaboration with referring clinicians across multiple specialties to provide timely, high-quality, and patient-centered interpretations.

The selected candidates will contribute to our clinical, teaching, and research missions, with responsibilities that include interpreting abdominal and pelvic CT, MRI, fluoroscopy, and ultrasound studies. In addition, the selected candidates will also participate in educational and administrative activities, such as teaching fellows, residents, medical students, and visiting scholars, as well as contributing to tumor boards and other division initiatives. A hybrid work schedule may be considered based on departmental needs. The Body Imaging Division is committed to supporting a healthy work-life balance. Faculty in this division do not perform invasive procedures.

Candidates with a strong interest in becoming international leaders in abdominal and pelvic imaging are encouraged to apply.

Candidates must have an MD, DO, or equivalent degree. Candidates must be board certified or board eligible in Diagnostic Radiology. Candidates must hold, or be eligible for, a California medical license or an equivalent certification/permit, as determined by the Medical Board of California.

Candidates who have completed an ACGME-accredited diagnostic radiology residency training program and a one-year body imaging fellowship are preferred. Candidates with at least one year of academic productivity and scholarship, clinical care experience, and teaching experience are also preferred. Candidates with a minimum of one year of prior experience in an academic setting are also preferred.
